MISS MAUFFRAY TELLS OF JOURNEY TO EUROPE AT BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

Luncheon Meeting Wednesday Noon—Attended Eucharistic Congress at Dublin—Visited Principal Places in Continental Europe.

Returned from a trip to Europe after an absence of two months, Miss Oleah Mauffray, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Mauffray, and member of the faculty at Central School, was guest and speaker before an assembly of business and professional men at the Rotary Club luncheon-meeting Wednesday and the accomplished young traveler-lecturer was given quite a welcome, judging by the applause before and after the speaking.

"We left Montreal on board of one of the Red Star liners with some six hundred or more passengers aboard," said the speaker, following preliminary remarks, "and for four days traveled over the St. Lawrence river toward the vast expanse of the Atlantic, on which waters we were about a week, and during which time the weather was ideal and the trip one of constant pleasure.

"Landing at Dublin, Ireland, scene of the Eucharistic Congress, we were soon impressed with the hospitality of the Irish. Their spirit was of the best of any people we met in continental Europe and I never saw a more obliging people, ever solicitous to the welfare and comfort of visitors. They impress one with their genial adverse conditions and yet, in contrast, they are happy and cheery. Their religious faith is sublime.

"Like others, I was impressed with the beauty and grandeur as well as with the solemnity of the services and exercises incidental to the world's Eucharistic Congress. It was here, during the solemn pontifical high mass we heard John McCormick sing.

"Leaving Ireland we journeyed southward to England, visiting London and other places of outstanding interest, Stratford-on-the-Avon one of the several, and here viewed the Shakespeare memorial. We were impressed with the country-sides of England, the open spaces consisting of vast park-like estates, belonging principally to the nobility. In London automobiles are not as numerous as one would imagine. Taxation on size and horsepower is extremely high, well-nigh prohibitive, and as a result the bulk of autos are small and in many instances diminutive. The average car is smaller than our own Austin which attracts no small amount of attention in this country. It was here, as in Dublin, we found the police accommodating in the extreme. Asking for a direction they accompany you to the place you seek, regardless of the distance and think nothing of it.

"In London, we witnessed the changing of the royal guard before Buckingham Palace. This was affected with great pomp and ceremony and is always of interest even to Londoners. We saw where the Prince of Wales resides and later we journeyed out to Windsor Castle.

"We then crossed the English channel and it was not long before our train reached Paris. Here we visited well-known public buildings and places of historic interest. I shall not dwell on these, for they are well-known to all and neither of those things that are near to the feminine mind and desire. I shall omit these since they more or less are of no interest to the mind of the opposite sex.

"It was here in Paris we found how cheap perfume sold. It is in great variety and supply and used both by men and women alike. Although we were told the bath is little used in France as compared with we Americans, yet there was much soap offered for sale at all stores.

"You must watch the wily storekeeper. He will short-change the tourist invariably. He knows they are far from versed in the use of the French money and generally accepts what is returned in change without question, the purchaser taking it for granted the change given is of correct amount. My girl friend had an experience of this kind and it was by resorting to the assistance of a stalwart gentleman friend and others of a party nearby that the proper change was forthcoming.

"We visited famous Lourdes. Here are daily pilgrimages of the faithful numbering thousands each day. The afflicted pray in the French language. They pray aloud in unison and utter the regulation and prescribed prayers. It is a most beautiful and unforgettable sight. The faith of the pilgrims is sublime. They pray with such fervor and are totally oblivious of those around them. Three miracles have been performed during the week previous to our visit. One was that of a young clerkman who was suffering from cancer of the throat. Another, a child in Italy. France, and the most recent, a child in Italy.

TOULME CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Man With Long and Successful Public Career Presents Formal Announcement to Voters.

R. W. Toulme, former mayor of city two terms, and who has held other public trust and private business responsibilities, is formally announced in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo as candidate for mayor of the city of Bay St. Louis. Although it was generally known Mr. Toulme would in time present his candidacy for the office, with this issue of this newspaper it becomes official, so to speak.

Mr. Toulme, or "Bob" Toulme, as he is popularly called by the many who know him for a term of years, is a native of this city, a son of a former mayor of Bay St. Louis, and, who, like his father has served the public on each and every occasion with fidelity and strictest application. It is with this experience and years of knowledge that Mr. Toulme wishes again to serve the public. He feels he is fully and better equipped than ever to again take the reins of the city and give the people a strict business-like and economical administration. He is personally visiting every voter, as much as possible, and placing his claims for consideration on pure merit. He has quite a record and this should speak for itself.

When seen by a representative of The Echo, Mr. Toulme said: "Born and raised in Bay St. Louis, I need no introduction as every man, woman and child knows me. Just to outline a few acts of my life in Bay St. Louis, have been a law abiding citizen and always ready and willing to comply with all the laws of the State. During Uman's administration I was appointed Chief of Police. During Geo. Arbo's administration when the city streets were sold at auction bought nine streets and kept them up for Fifteen Hundred Dollars a year.

Have worked for a very large corporation in Hancock county and managed the business of A. J. Clavier & Company in Biloxi and Bay St. Louis for 12 years or more. Twenty years ago I held the office of mayor two terms and my record while in office speaks for itself.

My slogan is "Lower Taxation" and if elected on October 8th, I promise to stop extravagance and know I have the courage and honesty with the experience to serve you economically. I ask your earnest consideration for my candidacy."

a large and beautiful city. On the French Riviera we found the people of an entirely different type. Free and easy nature, seemingly enjoying life and all that the great and beautiful Riviera has to offer.

"At Monte Carlo I was disappointed. In the movies and still pictures I had always seen the great gaming places peopled with women in evening gowns and men in full dress; fashion: always at its height. But such is not the case, at least, when we were there. Women at best wore sport clothes and men business suits. I guess I may attribute this to the depression in the absence of explanation.

"But I was not disappointed when we arrived at Venice. Here I saw Venice as you picture it. The Venice of story and picture book. We traveled along the Grand Canal in gondola, but the gondolier did not sing, neither did we hear others. Asking why this was the response was that you are expected to do the singing and not the man guiding the boat in that skillful manner which is noted.

"The trip to Switzerland was interesting, visiting the principal and well-known places. When we traveled northward again and visited Germany, Berlin and other outstanding points.

"The churches, cathedrals are of much interest. It was at Antwerp we boarded our steamer of the Red Star line and again, after another damnable ocean voyage reached New York and home again.

LONG TURNS DOWN REQUEST TO HELP MRS. BILBO'S RACE

Louisiana Senator Says He Has No Intention of Coming Into Mississippi

By RALPH WHEATLEY
Being knight-errant to one woman politician is enough in one season, figured Senator Huey P. Long, in turning down a request from Mrs. Theodore G. Bilbo, twice first lady of Mississippi, who has congressional aspirations.

Mindful of Long's success in the election of Mrs. Hattie Caraway to the United States Senate from Arkansas, Mrs. Bilbo telegraphed Long that she would enter the congressional race as a candidate at large if he would bring his sound trucks and oratory to Mississippi to her aid as he had done in Arkansas.

"I have no intentions of going into Mississippi," said the senator today.

Eight Words End Boom
And these eight words ended the boom of Mrs. Bilbo as she had said she would not run unless Long came over the line and helped her. If Mrs. Bilbo had run she would have been in a field of about 30 candidates, including her husband, Ex-governor Theodore Bilbo, who is seeking a comeback politically after the wrecking of his machine in the elections of last year when the Bilbo-labeled candidates made a sorry showing.

Mrs. Bilbo explained that she would not be running against her husband as they both would be candidates at large, if such candidacies finally were permitted by the courts, and indicated that it was possible that both she and her husband might be elected at the same time, giving the country two Representative Bilbos in Washington.

Squabble Recalled
Long probably was prompted in rejecting the invitation because of his political squabbles with Bilbo when they were governors of their respective states. In a heated controversy, Bilbo accused Long of trying to meddle with Mississippi affairs and Long retorted that it was time somebody took a hand in them.

Since leaving the executive mansion Mrs. Bilbo was brought into publicity when she filed charges against her son-in-law, Dr. Lamar Smith, at Poplarville, for a disturbance, after he had told her he did not know where she could find the ex-governor. The charge was later dropped and since then the Bilbo plantation and its "dream house" have been sold for debt at a court sale.

But despite this Bilbo is fighting for a return to politics as he did once before when he launched a campaign from jail where he was serving a sentence for contempt of court and from this start went back to the governor's mansion.

O. E. S. Visitors On Beach Party Last
Friday Night On Point

Lizana's bathing beach was leased Friday night for a beach party given by Bay St. Louis members of Eastern Star to visiting members from various points over the State on the Coast last week-end, attending the school of instruction held at Biloxi.

The party was thoroughly informal and proved one of more than ordinary pleasure for the visitors. Clad in the popular beach pajama garb the party assembled shortly after dark. Swimming in the waters of the gulf proved the big treat. This was followed by the serving of fried chicken in ample and repeated helpings and various games indulged in brought the evening to a close.

Mrs. E. J. Leonard, deputy district grand matron and Mrs. Charles J. Mitchell, local grand matron, headed the affair, ably and actively assisted by their associates and immediate co-workers.

A formal reception was held the evening previously at the local Masonic Temple, attended by many State and district dignitaries of the order.

Back Taxes Charged on 700 Biloxi Boats

Back taxes for the past three years will be charged against 700 Biloxi boats by the state of Mississippi, it was learned, Myrman Adams, of the state tax collector's office, said that only 51 boats had paid the assessment in 1929, 50 in 1930 and 48 in 1931. He has been at Biloxi investigating the conditions. A representative of the tax collector's office will be at Biloxi August 19 and 20 to hear objections. Efforts also are being made to collect back taxes on a number of pieces of real estate.

TO RESUME EVENING CLASSES

Vocational Board of Education and Rotary Club Night School To Be Resumed

The Vocational Board of Education will again sponsor the evening classes and night school, classes at the Central school. This work has been carried on jointly by the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, The Vocational Board of Education, and the Board of Trustees. These classes have been in operation for four years and have been the means of helping people to attend school who could not have attended otherwise. Any person is allowed to attend who is at least 14 years of age and who is not attending any other school in Bay St. Louis. The classes will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 7 to 9 o'clock and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 3 to 5 o'clock. All commercial classes will be offered along with some elementary classes in night school.

The expense of the evening and night classes have been borne entirely by the State Vocational Board and the Rotary Club. The Board of trustees cooperating by furnishing the building for classes but have not been paying anything from the local treasury for the support of the work. Anyone interested in taking up this work will please communicate with S. J. Ingram at the Central School.

PROGRESS REPORTED BY GAME AND FISH COMMISS'N OF MISS.

State Director Hunter Kimball Reports Rapidly Placing Game and Fish Law In Action.

Under the direction of Hunter Kimball, state director of conservation, the operating machinery of the game and fish Commission is being put in place and rapidly. The commission has been functioning less than two months but it is said to have made progress considering the large scope of work before it. "The splendid cooperation of the state and county officers, along with the cooperation and interest of the press and citizens of the state, has been a great help," said Mr. Kimball.

All fox hunters and all dove hunters will be able to secure hunting licenses from their sheriffs between August 15 and September 1. The open season on foxes was extended by the Commission at its last regular session, and now extends from September 1 to March 1. The dove season opens September 1, and is open for the month of September only this season being set by federal regulations inasmuch as doves are migratory birds.

Due to the nature of fox hunting most fox hunters will probably purchase "state hunting license," which will permit them to hunt in any county in the state. This license will be available for bona fide residents of the state (those who have lived within the state for a period of six months next preceding the application for license) for the nominal sum of $3.25. Non-resident hunters may secure a "state hunting license" for $26.25. The "county hunting license" for resident citizens will be $1 and for non-resident hunters $10. The open season on fur-bearing and game animals, except as otherwise specified, shall be from November 20 to January 31 next following. The open season on squirrels was extended by the Commission at a recent session, to open October 15.

The open season on fur-bearing animals shall be from November 15 to January 31 next following. There shall be no open season on otter and beaver until 1935. Rabbits may be hunted during the closed season with sticks and dogs, but without gun. There is no closed season on predatory animals. Game birds and animals cannot be hunted during the night from sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, either with or without the use of a light, except opossums, raccoons, rabbits, and foxes.

SENATOR HARRISON FLAYS PRESIDENT HOOVER'S SPEECH

Declares Acceptance Speech Is Continuation of "Straddle Tactics"

Roundly attacking President Hoover's acceptance speech, and asserting that "it must be said that in the main he is against the 18th amendment," while "four years ago he was the champion of prohibition," Senator Pat Harrison at Jackson Monday, unfatigued a broadside against the Republican platform and administration leaders.

Declaring "there is no just cause this year for a real Democratic opposing ticket," Sen. Harrison said: "There will be no excuse for Mississippi democrats at least to vote for the Republican electors this coming November. I care not how enthusiastic and conscientious and ardent prohibitionist you may be, you cannot help the cause by deserting the Democratic party and voting the Republican ticket."

Alluding to President Hoover's acceptance speech as "continuation of his straddle tactics," Sen. Harrison added that "we concede very few, if any, states to Mr. Hoover: The Democratic party militantly will make the fight in every doubtful state. I have no doubt of an overwhelming victory for the Democratic party in November."

Inaugurating his broadside with a word picture of the hall in which the president delivered his speech, the Mississippi senior senator charged that the auditorium was "stacked with jobholders and Hoover backers who went there to applaud whatever he said."

"It was a typical Hoover speech," said Sen. Harrison. "The boys who are running the big show for the Republicans this year evidently told the president to get out of his usual droling speech and put some kick in it. He tried hard to do it and that accounted in part for some enthusiasm. The outstanding part of the acceptance speech was the position the president took with reference to the prohibition question," said Sen. Harrison.

Calling on Mississippi Democrats to "not be deceived," Senator Harrison advised voters of the state to "accept not their honeyed words: Take not their sugar coated ideas; take not now new Republican evangelist who may come to you either in the cause of Hoover temperance or Hoover prosperity to hoodwink and deceive. They are merely attempting to rob the Democratic party of your vote and destroy in Mississippi the proud and glorious Democratic traditions bequeathed by our fathers."

Fire at Tudury Home, Main Street, Sunday A. M. From Unknown Origin

Fire of undetermined origin at about 2 o'clock Sunday morning partially destroyed the rear of the Theo Tudury home, in Main street, formally known as the E. H. Hoffman dwelling and since then sold to H. S. Weston and now belonging to that estate.

Mrs. Tudury operated the place as private boarding house and had a number of guests at the place at the time. However, a number of men connected with the O. S. T. highway hard-surfacing work stopping there, had gone to their respective homes up-state for the week-end and lost practically all of their baggage belongings, it was stated.

Mrs. Tudury's furniture was covered by insurance and the property as well, the latter in the Hancock County Insurance Agency. The alarm was promptly responded to and with a copious supply of water and ample pressure the fire was soon under control, and only the top of the rear portion of the structure destroyed.

It was a singularly incident that Mr. Tudury, one of the fire department attendants at the waterworks plant, who was on duty at the time, was called by an alarm of fire to his own place of residence.

1932-33 FACULTY FOR BAY ST. LOUIS PUBLIC SCHOOLS ANNOUNCED

Formal Opening of City Schools Friday Morning, September 2, at 9 O'clock—No Beginners Admitted Later Than September 19.

BLAIZE IS ANNOUNCED FOR MAYOR

Former Chief Executive Seeks Re-election on His Past Record of Achievement for City

Mr. Blaize, better known to his friends as "Bull," is one of the best men in town, born and reared in Bay St. Louis, and having served the public in numerous ways. He served as Alderman, under the late Mayor Webb and was later elected to fill Mr. Webb's unexpired term, in July 1925, and then re-elected for a full term. If there is any man familiar with the needs of Bay St. Louis, Mr. Blaize should be that man. When he left the office, he advised The Echo that there was a surplus of $5000.00 or more in the waterworks fund; in addition to this, he left the present administration in a position to collect $13,000.00 ad valorem tax from Hancock county, which had not been paid during his term of office.

Mr. Blaize has always been a friend of the public schools. He proved this by calling an election for a bond issue to build the handsome new Central School, immediately after taking his seat and through his untiring efforts the bond issue went over seven to one. His administration was also very liberal in the furnishings of said school, spending approximately $10,000.00 for furnishings.

His administration also proved progressive and economical by replacing all wooden bridges with standard re-inforced concrete pipe. He not only safe-guarded the life of the autoist but saved the taxpayers approximately $25,000.00 annually on maintenance of these wooden bridges. He believes in good drainage and installed several important drains throughout the city his aim was to install a drain or two annually until the entire town was drained, without adding to the taxes.

The water mains were flushed every sixty days during his administration thereby keeping the water clear and pure. Mr. Blaize says that if elected, he expects to replace, from time to time, all two-inch mains with those required by insurance companies thereby giving all equal fire protection.

During his administration two wells were drilled, and money left for a third, fifteen hundred feet of fire hose was purchased, also $1500 of fire plugs, to be placed where needed. By contract with the Mississippi Power Company, the city was better lighted at a smaller cost than formerly. The water system was extended wherever necessary, and put on a paying basis, and the schools on a cash basis, and streets were kept in good repair. He purchased an automatic pump for the waterworks, thereby saving thousands of dollars to the taxpayers. He also purchased city and waterworks truck and a one man grader, which were paid for during his administration. In addition to the above sidewalks were paved almost over the entire city.

It was the Blaize administration that advocated the purchasing of a modern fire engine, and money was left for the new fire engine house.

He favors reduction of taxes and equalization of assessments. He insists that taxes must come down and so must water rent. He believes in cheaper water rental, with quarterly or semi-annual payments, and special rates for property owners, who only rent or occupy their properties during summer months. His experience as an official will serve him well, if successful in coming election.

Mr. Blaize seeks the support of everyone based on the fact that he will give a square deal to all, and an economic administration, if elected. His candidacy is here presented to the consideration of the voters. If they choose to elect him he will not doubt serve their interest to the best ability as on former occasions.

on their journey homeward. Before leaving Mr. and Mrs. Spotorino voiced their appreciation of the many attentions and courtesies from neighbors and other friends during their returned stay in Bay St. Louis.

The Bay St. Louis City Schools will open on Friday morning, September 2nd at 9 A. M. The first day will be devoted to classification and securing of book lists. Owing to the fact that Monday is Labor Day we will not begin regular work until Tuesday morning, September 6. All students are requested to be present on the opening date so that there will be no delay in the work on Tuesday. Those students entering school as beginners must be six years of age prior to February 1st, 1933. It is important that patrons keep in mind the fact that no beginners will be accepted at mid-term and not later than September 19th of the first semester.

The faculty for the coming session will be as follows: Miss Bessie Givens, Logtown, Miss., will have charge of the English department, after being absent a year to secure her Masters of art degree at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee. Miss LaVerne Caperton will have charge of the commercial department and Spanish, succeeding Edward Mayfield.

HANCOCK COUNTY BANK AT GULFPORT.

CONGRATULATIONS are extended the Hancock County Bank on the occasion of its enterprise in extending its service along the Gulf Coast from Bay St. Louis eastward as far as Gulfport, one of the seven cities by the sea and perhaps the most important business point where two railroads converge and Mississippi's only world harbor exists.

Not wishing to impose itself on the people of that city at a time they might be able to rise above their own adverse circumstances when the former bank failed to open its doors last fall, but awaited until every effort at reopening failed.

Then the Hancock County Bank with good grace and timely mien announced its advent to Gulfport and the news received there with much favor. It is not surprising then on Monday morning when the bank opened its doors of business it was greeted with praise and patronage.

Gulfport is destined to be quite a city and the new Hancock County Bank is not without its future. Its enterprise entitles it to all possible success in its new field.

CLERMONT HARBOR TO CELEBRATE

RESIDENTS of Clermont Harbor are preparing to celebrate Labor Day week-end in a manner as to interest people from many sections in addition to its own. Members of Clermont Harbor Improvement Association, builders of the public pier, are planning a monster celebration, the details of which have not as yet been given out, but suffice to say, will be along lines different from anything of the like ever attempted.

There will be the dance on the pier pavilion on the Saturday preceding and thousands from New Orleans in this section on that evening will contribute a full quota of attendance. The pier entailed a heavy expenditure and subsequent debt and it is planned to raise sufficient funds in order to discharge the obligation in part or as much as possible.

Residents of Clermont Harbor are to be commended for their enterprise and public-spiritedness and are entitled to a liberal patronage in support of their splendid work.

THE PRIMARY SYSTEM O. K.

A NUMBER of political leaders are predicting the end of the primary. They say that the primary system is vicious and susceptible to corruption.

This is the leading joke of the year. The only difference between corruption in primaries and in conventions is that the purchase of convention votes is more convenient and less discernable. The corruption that exists in the primaries of the United States can be ascertained whereas in the old days the bribery of convention members and the purchase of votes could be hidden and, as a matter of fact, was successfully hidden most of the time.

The truth of the matter is that the disclosure of revolting uses of money in the country, in some primaries, has strengthened the opinion of many people that the primary is a necessary cog in our political machine. It is much harder, and more costly, to purchase the majority of a large electorate than to hand buy the smaller number of votes that will give control of a convention.

SCHOOLS TO RE-OPEN.

WITH the publication of the personnel of faculty for the city schools of Bay St. Louis, Supt. S. J. Ingram announces the opening date, Friday morning, September 2, further particulars appearing in the news columns of The Echo. This date includes Central and High School, Webb and Taylor schools and Valena C. Jones colored school as well.

On Thursday, September 8, President Bro. William announces opening of 1932-33 session St. Stanislaus college and St. Joseph's Academy will open on its customary date and in line with the college.

It is pointed out that the enrollment of the city public and private schools will far exceed that of last year. Knowing ones tell The Echo indications point that way. This is complimentary to our schools and reflects achievement and accomplishment.

BOTH WRONG.

NOW that the stock market has shown signs of coming to life the politicians of the old-line parties are grabbing for the credit, if any may be obtained.

Republican spellbinders say that it proves the efficiency of the measures and leadership of President Hoover and Democratic speakers point out that it is because of the certainty that Mr. Roosevelt will be elected and end Mr. Hoover's leadership.

The truth is that both are wrong. It merely proves that the people of this country, including their sanity, after going crazy from frenzied fears.

No organization can be stronger than the brains that direct it.

These new bathing suits are what put the swimming in swimming.

BILOXI TO DISCUSS OWNERSHIP POWER PLANT.

FROM Biloxi comes the intelligence of recommendation that the city consider the ownership and operation of an electric light and power plant and gas plant as well by Mayor Kennedy to the members of the board of councilmen at the meeting held this week. The recommendations, were made, it is stated, as a measure which would create an increase in the city's revenue and decrease the burden of taxation.

It is proposed in the recommendation, the report says, to appoint a committee of citizens to conduct intensive investigation of the feasibility of the suggestion.

Biloxi, like other communities, is in need of lower tax rate and more revenue. The first cannot be done without lessening the revenue.

Bay St. Louis waterworks system and operation is municipally-owned and a revenue producer. In fact the system is well operated and financed in a manner that not only has the water rent been reduced several times, and again this year, but a surplus fund results. If the waterworks plant may be successfully owned by the municipality it does not require much reasoning to conclude that any other public utility might be owned to the same extent of success.

Mayor Kennedy's suggestion will be watched with interest and if put into execution other communities may follow the lead, particularly the larger cities of the Coast.

The old cry that politics creeps into municipally-owned plants is a plaint of another day. In this age of advancement and methods of business there seems no hesitancy to endorse the suggestion of Mayor Kennedy.

MOTORING OVER O. S. T.

WITH the practical completion of the Old Spanish Trail through Hancock county, save for the small stretch (under construction) running through the city of Bay St. Louis, one may travel to and fro with none of the former apprehension or discomfort. Rolling mile after mile one's auto travels through the Mississippi pine forests, then through the scenic highway of Honey Island section into Louisiana's territory with concrete highway along ever changing scenes of native beauty and places of historic interest and with here and there where fertile Louisiana fields have successfully beckoned to the homesteader. The traveler continues over the splendid bridges at Rigolets and Chef Menteur, steel structures displaying the genius of both engineer and skilled artisan, passing Fort Pike and Fort McComb nearby; over streams where the fishermen are engaged in piscatorial pursuit and only a comparative short run when one is approaching the urban edges of a great city.

The interest of the route by auto from Bay St. Louis to New Orleans is found in the fact that it is so unlike of anything elsewhere. The open water spaces and broad expanse of prairie and marsh lands are compelling to the sight and alluring to the senses for the oddly beautiful.

Motoring from New Orleans to the Coast attracts many. Thousands each week-end enjoy the journey and find much along the waters of the Gulf. It is then no wonder the Coast is the Mecca for thousands each summer and those who visit once return season after season. With the completion of hard-surfacing the Old Spanish Trail, all hazards removed, it is but natural to expect travel along the O. S. T. will increase many fold and the popularity of this section increase correspondingly.

If you want to remember a friend who lives away from home send him or her The Echo for a year. Not a bad idea.

LESS TAXES MEAN MORE VALUE.

THE Echo is glad to note there is not only a tendency to reduce taxation but that assessments over the county are actually lowered and thereby there is a great rift in the clouds and the muchly-wanted relief is in sight.

There is a double reason for a reduced taxation. First, to stabilize and to bring back realty values by creating a market and secondly for the reason people in majority of instances have not the money wherewith to pay the demanded stipend.

Realty values have depreciated to an extent that little or no market exists. Where there is no demand for property values there is no sale and consequently no values. Values are only regulated by the demand and not always by intrinsic worth.

The reasonable free holder is always willing to contribute his share to the upkeep of his State, county and city. Funds must be realized to defray governmental expenses, bonds retired, interest paid and other obligations discharged. The public must not look for too drastic a cut for it cannot be done for the present, but there must be some relief forthcoming. We are glad to note it is at hand.

Canada should be blamed for trying to seek imperial preferences. We do the same thing when we bar foreign competition.

POPULAR RAIL EXCURSIONS.

LOUISVILLE & Nashville Railroad is further popularizing their well-known service with seasonal excursions and thousands who would not otherwise travel are taking advantage of the rate.

In addition to low rates to Chicago and points East, one dollar will carry travelers Monday, August 22 and later on Sunday, August 28, from the Mississippi Gulf Coast to New Orleans and back.

On Saturday, August 27 two dollars will carry one to Pensacola and back for the week-end.

These are two short delightful trips and great value for the money. They should prove an incentive for travel at comparatively little cost.

We may be old-fashioned but we can't see where it pays the people of Bay St. Louis to send their money away from home to buy things that they can purchase here.

WITH THE STATE PRESS.

ETHICS FOR EVERYBODY.

A MATEUR sports are clean—A fact proven every now and then, by the occasional exceptions.

Let some boxer, swimmer, violate the code of decent sport, and how quickly, hotly we resent it.

Respect for the creed of sportsmanship as developed within two decades by the modern Olympic Games is most remarkable.

Men of many races enter. They come from all over the world bringing scores of varying athletic codes, each having its own particular sporting standards.

But in the games they pool their ethics—learn from each other—agree upon one rule for all and abide by it, enforce it.

Sometimes in the heat of contest, we find a slip—perhaps intentional, more likely not.

But he who deliberately fouls is OUT.

Why can't we carry the high ideals of Olympic sports to broader fields? To our politics, to our conduct in public office, to national government and international relations?

If communities, cities, states and nations ever learn to "play the game" then democracy will be a fact, not a simple theory.

If world statesmen will only adopt the ethics of clean sport, we shall begin to see the world-wide federation of our dreams.

We scorn the cheater in sports—Why do we continue to admire the clever sneak in politics, the statesman who hits below the belt, the nation that by craft and hypocrisy—"diplomacy"—irks and outwits another nation?

We and all the world need most: Striving without disrespect—Seeing without distrust—Thinking without malice—Mutual appreciation and mutual esteem.

Open and above-board—all fair and square—The test of every man and nation is the test of sportmanship.—Meridian Star.

HARD HIT

SCORES of suicides of prominent persons, men and women who once had social position and wealth, have been reported in the daily press. Many have speculated perhaps as to the circumstances which influence persons of the so-called "upper class" to snuff their lives.

In virtually every case the reason assigned for these acts of self extinction is "financial" difficulties or reverses.

Virtually everyone in this world has been hard hit by the economic difficulties which came over this and other nations like a huge devastating tidal wave, sweeping away fortunes and business, built by sacrifice and exercise of intelligent industry.

Many saw their fortunes grow steadily. The accumulation of wealth spelled the attainment of many things they had desired from boyhood and girlhood. They were able to get into the "swim."

Numerous fine magnificent new mansions were built. Yachts were acquired. Costly cars were in the garage. They were so happy. They had everything. They tasted the honey-sweetness of life and they drank to the last drop.

Then came adversity. Their fortunes dwindled. Want stared them in the face. The things they loved passionately were swept away. The mode of living to which they had become accustomed was forced by circumstances to be modified to a simpler existence.

Many could not stand the thought of going back. They forgot that they had started from the bottom. They forgot that where character remains together with faith man or woman can triumph over all difficulties.

Having had eyes only for the material, they could not embrace with their vision the fact that vanishing things mean little but service and duty well performed everything.

They slipped from the cup of adversity and put it aside. It was too bitter. Rather not be than to be forced to live in penury and want.

In short, these who had most and lost their possessions were hit as they said it beyond the possibility of repair. They who had little and were forced to exist on still less paid little heed, for there was nothing which they really missed. Besides there appears to be more genuine character among those of small means than with those who came down from the heights.

Character and faith tell the story. According to the measure we possess these essentials will be our conquest or defeat in a time of adversity.—Hattiesburg American.

Alabama Legislature To Consider Income And Sales Tax Bills

The Alabama Legislature met at Montgomery this week in a special session with two tax proposals—one for a levy on incomes and the other on sales—before it as means of producing new revenue.

Governor R. M. Miller, who called the special session, has advocated the income tax, while numerous legislators have announced as favoring a general sales tax. A twenty-five per cent slash in state salaries and appropriations as another budget-balancing suggestion.

Promise has been made by J. F. Thames, state highway commissioner, according to L. O. Crosby of Picayune, that hard-surfacing of the Jackson Highway, from the Picayune limits and connecting the Old Spanish Trail, six miles south of Picayune, would be one of the first pieces of work to be done after the commission receives the $4,000,000 federal relief fund. With the hard-surfacing of that stretch of highway, Picayune will be connected by a complete hard-surfaced highway to New Orleans, and Bay St. Louis and all points along the Mississippi coast.

L. & N. Reports New Low Mark In Employee Injuries

A new low mark in employee injuries per million man-hours worked was established by the Louisville & Nashville railroad in June, it is announced in the August L. & N. Employees' Magazine. With two deaths and 21 injuries occurring during June on the entire L. & N. system, an all time low number, a rate of less than five casualties per million man-hours was reached for the first time on record. This achieved a goal that was set in 1927 and which has been steadily approached each year.

In 1927 the L. & N.'s casualty rate was more than 20 injuries per million man-hours. In 1928 this rate was cut to 10. In 1929 and 1930 it was still further reduced, and in 1931 the low mark of 6.96 was reached.

Deaths

DEATH TAKES N. O. RESIDENT WHILE IN BAY CITY VISITING

Joseph Schiro, Victim of Heart Malady, Passed Away Monday Afternoon at 6:30.

Mr. and Mrs. August Schiro of Bay St. Louis have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends both here and in New Orleans on the occasion of the sorrow which cast a shadow across their home with the visitation of death at their home in Main street, Monday afternoon at 6:55 o'clock when Mr. Schiro's brother-in-law, Joseph Schiro, of New Orleans, passed away, a victim of an acute heart malady.

Mr. Schiro from New Orleans had been ailing for some time and came to visit his kin and to spend a while in Bay St. Louis always possessing a fondness for this section.

The remains were taken to New Orleans that night and the last ceremonies and rites took place from the funeral home of Lamana-Panno-Pallo, cemetery services from St. Mary's Italian church, and interment at Metairie cemetery Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the funeral largely attended and noted for the wealth of floral tributes, as Mr. Schiro was both well and widely known in the Crescent City.

Mr. Schiro was the beloved husband of the late Mary Schiro, father of Lucas, John, Martin, Gasper, August, Anthony, Andrew and Carrie Schiro and Mrs. Martin Sciambra, Mrs. Jake Terranova and Mrs. Joseph Sciambra, brother of Mrs. P. Romano, brother-in-law of Andrew and August Schiro and Mrs. M. Ragusa of New Orleans and Gasper and Jacob Schiro and Mrs. Carolina Pizzo of Contessa Entellina, Italy, aged 63 years, a native of Contessa Entellina, Italy, and a resident of New Orleans for 42 years. Deceased at 1674 North Broad street, New Orleans.

Both Mr. and Mrs. August Schiro of Bay St. Louis were unusually fond of the deceased. He frequently visited them and one of his sons, John, lived and was educated by them.

They have the sympathy of many friends both here, along the Coast and in New Orleans.

DEATH OF WOMAN WHO HAD LIVED TO SERVE FELLOW-BEING

Mrs. Robert Maynard of Bay St. Louis Passed Away at N. O. Sunday Afternoon

At New Orleans on Sunday, August 14, 1932, at 4:30 o'clock P. M., Clemence Escag wife of Robert E. Maynard, and by first marriage wife of the late Frank R. Weltring, survived by five sons, Frank R. Weltring, Williams A. Weltring, George Robert and John Maynard, and one daughter, Mrs. Bert Johnson of Bay St. Louis, aged 60 years, a native of New Orleans, La.

Funeral took place Monday, August 15, 1932, at 4 o'clock P. M., at New Orleans. Church services at St. Maurice church. Interment St. Vincent de Paul cemetery.

Mrs. Maynard had been a victim of arthritis and finally pneumonia developed and she passed away surrounded by her loved ones and her spirit fortified by the last sacraments of the Catholic church.

Mrs. Maynard was a remarkable woman in more ways than one. Her life was one of ministration to the sick and suffering and she devoted her entire life to her family and to others who were in need in time of suffering and stress. She was self-sacrificing at all times seeking neither price nor gain. She was truly a woman of christian charity and one who practiced in her daily life the precepts of the Maker, helping to heal the sick, to comfort the afflicted and alleviating the afflicted.

Through her extreme modesty Mrs. Maynard was little known outside of the poor and needy, and since there is a reward for those who practice the virtues that she did in that true humble and christian-like manner than there must be richness stored away for her in her Father's mansions.

The funeral Monday at New Orleans was largely attended, several friends from Bay St. Louis attending. The husband and family have the heartfelt sympathy of the community in their hour of bereavement, when the home has been robbed of its sunshine and the touch of the hand now vanished and will be missed forever.

To her children she has left a heritage that in time will prove invaluable for her golden deeds will live long after she has gone.

COMMENT ON SPORTS SHERIDAN

Carr Beats Eastman
Bausch Wins Decathlon
The Pentathlon
Lehinen's Tactics
Tolan Tops Sprinters
Sharkey to Fight
Almost Perfect Game
Miss Didrickson's Record

The rivalry between Bill Carr, native of mine bluff, Ark., and student at the University of Pennsylvania, and Ben Eastman, the California marvel, came to a spectacular climax in the Olympic 400-meter race. Once again Carr demonstrated his superiority as he took his third decisive over Eastman. However, "Big Ben" ran the fastest race of his life, breaking a world's record to finish in 46.3 but one second behind the smooth-running Carr, whose finish was perfect and without any signs of extra effort. Eastman took the lead and held it until the last sixty yards, when Carr put on his drive and moved ahead to win.

In the event that any reader of this column in Hancock county thinks he is something of an athletic professor, let him look over the record set by Jim Bausch, the Kansas football player, who won the decathlon championship in ten track and field events and set a new world's record in a test that calls for everything that makes up an athlete. His complete record follows:

100 meters, 11.7 seconds
Broad jump, 22 feet 9 5/8 inches
Shot putt, 50 feet 3 1/8 inches
400 meters, 54.2 seconds
High jump, 5 feet 7 inches
110 meter hurdles, 16.2 seconds
Discus, 146 feet 3 3/4 inches
Pole vault, 13 feet 1 1/2 inches
Javelin, 203 feet 1 1/2 inches
1,500 meters, 5:17.

The Kansan was barely able to finish the last lap of the 1500 meter-run which ended the gruelling competition and came in last in this field. However, he finished first in the shot putt, discus, javelin and pole vault events, breaking the previous decathlon record in the last two and receiving more than 1,000 points for each. The points are based on marks set in 1912 and equaling such a record gives the contestant 1,000 points. Extra points are given for exceeding them and fewer points depending upon how far short of the world record he comes.

Sweden, represented by Count Johan Gabriel Oxenstierna, won the pentathlon, although Lieut. Richard Mayo, U. S. Artillery officer, after an almost perfect performance in pistol shooting, was in the lead until he crumpled up in the heart-breaking cross-country run in which event he ended in the 17th place. However, the Army officer, who placed third, made the best record of any American in Olympic pentathlon history and was half a point ahead of the 1928 champion at the finish. The victor was never a winner or far behind in any event of the five-day program.

The pentathlon requires an athlete to do everything that was done in the days when knights were bold. He must ride a horse up and down dale, fight a sword battle, called fencing, fire his pistol proficiently, swim a 300-meter course and then run 400 meters cross-country. It is quite a workout.

One of the most amazing decisions at the Olympic games gave the 5,000-meter race to Lauri Lehinen, of Finland, who twice fouled Ralph Hill, Oregon boy, by crossing over in front of the American twice during the last sixty yards when Hill attempted to pass his Finnish rival. While the judges refused to disqualify the Finn, they admit that he fouled the American but fear of a squawk caused them to let Lehinen get the decision. Afterwards, when the Finn stood on the top of the victor's pedestal, he tried unsuccessfully to persuade Hill to stand there with him. The American refused but his rival pinned a Finnish medal on him.

Eddie Tolan, negro sprinter, only five feet, four inches high, has established himself as the fastest runner in the world by winning the 100-meter and 200-meter races at the Olympic games. Within three days he scored his double triumph and demonstrated his superiority among the sprinting tribe. Tolan conquered Ralph Metcalfe another negro sprinter, as well as Simpson, of Ohio, and the best that Germany, Argentina and the other countries could offer.

Tolan's victories turned the tables on his larger negro rival, Metcalfe, who won both American championships in the final try-outs. He brought to the United States its first double sprint title since 1920 when Charlie Peacock won the 100-meter sprint and Alan Woodring captured the 200 meter event. The last American double winner was Ralph Craig, University of Michigan sprinter, who took both dashes in Stockholm in 1912.

Jack Sharkey is expected to fight somebody in Boston this fall but William F. Carey of Madison Square Garden, who holds exclusive rights to his services, has barred Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera and Ernie Schaaf. Sharkey hopes for a bout with Johnny Riska, of Cleveland, or King Levinsky, of Chicago.

Tommy Bridges, Detroit right-hander, hurled an almost perfect game against Washington recently, when he retired the first 26 men to face him. Then, in the ninth with two out, and the score 15 to 0 against the Senators, Manager Walter Johnson sent in a pinch hitter, who singled to left field. It was a hard break for Bridges, who had held his opponents from anything that looked like a hit up to that time.

Hats off to Miss Mildred Babe Didrickson, the "track team" from Dallas, Texas. The young lady won two Olympic championships and broke a world's record in three tries, which is about all one could expect from any performer. The javelin throw and the 80-meter hurdles were the events she captured, and in the high jump she tied Miss Jean Shirley for a new world's record but was disqualified, as a winner, for the technical offence of "diving." She will share world record recognition, however.

Hoping to save a few games by real relief work, Joe McCarthy has secured Wilcy Moore, with his underhand delivery, to help the Yankees hold their lead. . . . Boxing seems to have reached a low ebb in popularity throughout the United States. Excepting the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, few bouts draw big gates in the cities that used to support the sport. . . . Rogers Hornsby, relieved of managerial duties at Chicago, has had his share of trouble with employers. Recent engagements include St. Louis, New York, Boston and Chicago, but the Rajah has never asked for sympathy. He runs his team to suit himself, assumes all responsibility and tells the bosses to take it or leave it. . . . Wes Ferrell, Cleveland ace, held Boston to one hit, and missed a no-hit, no-run game when Dale Alexander singled in the fourth inning. . . . Art Shires has been placed on the voluntary retired list because of a knee injury. He will be paid in full and the Boston Club will get him the best possible hospital treatment.

Opportunities In Livestock In Hancock County.

By R. H. BRYAN
(County Agent)

WITH the long growing season, mild winters and vast area of land suitable for producing forage and grazing crops, livestock could easily become an enterprise of considerable importance in Hancock county. In fact, it should be the major project in several communities.

The raising of cattle as is now practiced in some communities of South Mississippi, is nothing more than a make-shift, and offers no inducement to buyers to come into this section to purchase our cattle because of the poor quality. In many communities, the average cattleman is inclined to grow careless about the breeding of his cattle, and allow themselves to drift along the lines of least resistance in livestock production.

Let's renew the interest in livestock raising in Hancock county by putting new rep into it. According to Mr. S. W. Greene of the McNeill Experiment Station "Pastures with as great carrying capacity as any section of the country can be developed in this section at small cost. Cattle grazing on the young tender growth of the native grasses in spring and early summer, make rapid gains until about August 1st, when the native grasses grow tough and unpalatable. By July 1st however, improved pastures of carpet grass and lespedeza are in their prime and if given proper attention, will develop a carrying capacity of 1 1/2 to 2 head of mature animals per acre." He also says "An enterprise of considerable magnitude is lying dormant in Hancock and adjoining counties because the livestock men are failing to take advantage of the enormous amount of good grazing going to waste. The average grazing period ranging from 8 1/2 to 9 months annually."

Pure-Bred Beef-Type Sires Needed.

Another condition that should be corrected. In looking into the situation over the county I find too many half-breed Jersey Sires with the herds of cattle. The Jersey is not recognized as such, nor can it be developed into a beef breed. Pure-bred Jerseys are good dairy type, when ample forage and improved pastures of carpet grass and lespedeza are provided, but the half-breed Jersey sires have no place on any range, and the cattleman who permits one to run with his cows and heifers is working against his best interest. A Jersey whether pure-bred or half breed in a herd of beef-type cows is looked upon as a scrub, and when the cattleman adopt the slogan, "Kill the scrub Sires," and not until then will they build up their beef herd. Some men will argue that the half-breed Jerseys are capable of roughing it through the winter months with little or no feed and still survive until grass comes in early spring. Possibly so, but what have you? The expense of getting them to market is out of proportion to what you will get out of your investment.

When a carload of good milk-fed grade Hereford calves are placed on the market, they immediately attract attention of the buyers, but if they find one in the lot with a trace of Jersey their bids are made on basis as if the whole lot were Jersey.

The proper procedure in growing into the beef cattle business, is to select the best cows and heifers of the native stock of beef type predominating; ones that are pretty good milkers, then purchase a good pure-bred beef type sire of the Hereford, Red Poll, or Angus and arrange breeding as near as possible for January and February calves and allowing the cows and their calves to run on good improved pastures, with a possible supplement of grain and cottonseed meal as concentrates for the calves, and providing, of course, plenty of good clean water. This kind of a program, as I see it, offers an opportunity to realize much more from the added effort and expense, and sell the increase as milked calves, rather than attempt growing out of mature animals.

Along with this, if all cattleman of a community would use sires of the same breed; producing calves of uniform color and size, and market cooperatively, it would have a decided influence toward making a big success of the enterprise.

Because of the nation-wide depressed economic situation over the country since the autumn of 1923, with thousands of men out of employment and millions of others with reduced buying power, the outlook has not been encouraging to the livestock man. Stock cattle in many sections of the country are at a low ebb at this time, but with return of normal business conditions that will put the unemployed back to work, there will be, in my opinion a wild scramble among the livestock raisers to get in the game on a big scale.

Quite frequently, with an outburst of high prices for beef cattle, a man will buy into the business at high prices rather than grow into it, and when he fails to realize a big profit from his production, he sells out at a loss.

FALL VEGETABLE CROPS.

With recent rains over the county, providing ample moisture for preparing for a full vegetable crop, either for home consumption, or near-by markets, farmers who have not yet prepared their soil, should do so at once. Thorough preparation of the soil pays in increased yields at all times but especially is this true for fall crops.

Lack of moisture is cause for so many failures in fall gardens. Thorough preparation increase the moisture holding ability of the soil, and if this feature has been looked after, there should be ample moisture from recent rains to justify plans for a fall garden, with a reasonable area to green beans, beets, turnips, cabbage Irish potatoes and others. The cabbage seed should have been sown ten days to two weeks ago on shaded beds, but most of the other seed are reasonably safe to plant around September 1st to 10th.

The commercial fertilizers should be applied to the soil ten days to two weeks before seed are sown, and the ground cultivated frequently in order to conserve moisture, unless the rains are often enough to supply the requirements. For the benefit of those who will need commercial fertilizers, will advise that I have secured quotations from several sources, and if gardeners and farmers would care to purchase their fertilizer requirements cooperatively, I shall be glad to aid in pooling orders, and buying in carloads or local lots, either for vegetables, or acreage to be set to strawberry plants.

Gulfside "Songfest" To Be Presented On Sunday, August 28

The Gulfside Chorus of 500 voices will give its second annual Song Fest Sunday afternoon, August 28th, 3 o'clock at Waveland, Mississippi.

The program is to be complimentary to the city, town and county officials and other citizens of the Gulf Coast who have exhibited a sympathetic interest in the Gulfside enterprise and the work of racial uplift which it is trying to do.

Bishop Jones states that adequate arrangements are being planned to accommodate the large crowd which is anticipated.

This chorus made a tremendous impression in its initial performance last year, and the Gulfside management feels the program this year will be even better.

In addition to the Gulfside Chorus there will be an aggregation of singers from Rust College participating in the program.

The singing will be the kind you won't forget.

Mrs. Bilbo Is Changing Plans As Long Refuses

With Senator Huey Long refusing to aid Mrs. Theo. G. Bilbo, wife of ex-governor and candidate for congress in her race for a congressional post, Mrs. Bilbo has given up hope of making the campaign this year.

From New Orleans, Senator Long declared he has no interest in Mississippi politics.

Mrs. Bilbo said she would seek the office if Senator Long would aid her like he did Mrs. Thaddeus Caraway, in Arkansas, and if the race is thrown state-wide, permitting her to file her late entry.

HANCOCK BANK AT GULFPORT

Local Institution Opens Its Branch Monday Morning With Brightest Prospects.

Gulfport, with no bank since Thanksgiving Day when the First National Bank failed to re-open its doors, was again with banking facilities Monday morning when the Hancock Bank opened its fourth bank in that city ready for business, occupying the handsome old First National bank building at 13th street and 25th avenue.

There was no formal ceremony. The bank simply opened its doors at the appointed time and G. T. Darnell a Gulfport merchant with place of business nearby, was first depositor. Money was transferred from the Long Beach branch under heavily-armed guard from Gulfport police department.

President Leo W. Seal of the Hancock County Bank in Bay St. Louis and branches, was present with his corps of assistants, S. L. Engman, of Bay St. Louis, George Estes, of Long Beach and Miss Hazel E. Murphy also of Long Beach.

Judging from the initial business given the bank its advent to Gulfport was warmly welcomed and the future bids fair. The Hancock County Bank is well known for its long years of existence and stability. Its resources total nearly two million dollars.

President Seal expresses himself as well satisfied with the opening at Gulfport and the general public gratified at the fact the city will possess so fine banking facilities.

More Unemployment

Forbes magazine tells of a youngster who liked his first day at school and increased his liking for it throughout the week, so that when Friday came he was put out to learn from the teacher that there would be no school on Saturday and Sunday. When he got home his mother asked why he looked so depressed. "Darn it," he complained "I've been laid off for two days."

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

Anyone who needs building up should include eggs in many meals. They are rich in all elements that build muscle, bone and blood. Don't serve them the same way day after day. Try one of these recipes on the family the next time you have eggs

Scalloped Eggs and Shrimp

4 hard cooked eggs
1 cup cooked or canned shrimp
1/2 cup buttered crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 cups well seasoned white sauce
Slice the hard cooked eggs and add with the shrimp and parsley to the white sauce. Pour into a well greased casserole dish, top with the buttered crumbs, and bake in hot oven for fifteen minutes.

Eggplant Omelette

Peel one medium eggplant, cut in dice, cook until tender, then drain well. Meanwhile beat two eggs until fluffy, add 1 1/4 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons melted butter and 3 tablespoons of grated cheese. Fold in the eggplant and turn the entire mixture into a hot frying pan in which 3 tablespoons of fat have been heated. Serve immediately.

Egg Salad

6 hard boiled eggs
2 tablespoons chopped sweet gherkins
3/4 green pepper finely chopped
3/4 cup cooked dressing
1/2 lemon juice
5 drops tobacco sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
Soften the gelatin in cold water, add the boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add the other ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into cold wet molds and place in the refrigerator until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce with additional cooked dressing.

Scrambled Rice With Eggs

3 eggs, 1 cup cooked rice, 1/2 cup milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, pepper to taste.
Beat the eggs only until mixed, and add the milk, salt and rice. Heat the butter in a frying pan, add the egg and rice mixture and cook over a slow heat, stirring from the bottom of the pan until the eggs are set and the mixture rather firm. Season with pepper and serve at once. Serve with sautéed tomatoes and fresh cooked spinach or greens.

Potatoes and Eggs

Make mounds of mashed potatoes in well greased butter pans. Scoop out the centers, put in bits of butter, break an egg in each mound. Dot with butter, add salt and one tablespoon of milk. Bake until eggs are firm.

COLMER ATTACKS HALL'S RECORD IN McHENRY ADDRESS

W. M. "Bill" Colmer, district attorney of the Coast district, spoke to a large audience at McHenry in the interest of his candidacy for Congress from the sixth district. The speaking was held at 3 o'clock at the McHenry public school auditorium and Mr. Colmer, well known in that section, delivered a strong address, according to reports of persons who heard him.

He was said to have reaffirmed his stand to give his full support to the policies of the Democratic party as enunciated in its platform adopted at the recent Chicago national convention relative to repeal of the 18th Amendment and to have torn into the official record of Congressman Robert Hall of Hattiesburg, one of his opponents.

War Dangers Give Brook Background For Picture Role

His own experiences in the World War prepared Clive Brook for the title role in "The Man From Yesterday," the Paramount picture, in which he is co-starring with Claudette Colbert. Brook, who enlisted early and was early mustered out of service because of wounds, found his own life broken, as does the character he plays in "The Man From Yesterday."

"The Man From Yesterday," coming to the A. & G. Theatre Sunday and Monday, begins with a war romance, but its drama is centered in after-the-war confusion. Clive Brook, a British officer on leave meets Claudette Colbert, a war nurse, in Paris. After a whirlwind romance they are wed, one hour before Brook has to leave for the front. Later, Brook is incorrectly reported dead. Claudette, when the war ends, has found a new love in Charles Boyer, a doctor who helped her during the difficult years. She is the mother of Brook's child.

Boyer, convinced that Brook is dead, urges Claudette to marry him. She intuitively believes Brook to be alive, and refuses, although now all her love is centered in Boyer. Together they take a holiday in Switzerland. There, at a rehabilitation center, Brook, a war-racked veteran, clinging to life by a thread, finds Claudette. Brook discovers that her love for him is dead. That he has no place in her life. He makes "the noble gesture," leaving Claudette and Boyer to find joy in their love. "The Man From Yesterday" is the romance of a modern Enoch Arden, capably acted.

CHURCH FAIR AND BOXING

Boxing Card Opening Fair
Friday Night Attracted
Many and Proved of Interest.

The Mid-Summer Fair for the benefit of the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf was a success. Realizing times have changed things and that money is scarce the workers went to the task with full steam ahead and that the fair is over the pastor, Rev. Father Gmelch, is pleased with the outcome.

The fair opened with an unusual event, a boxing card. The fights were staged on Friday night at the College gym, and all who attended the show say it was the best card presented to the local fans. The boys went at it with hammer and tongs. Every fight from the baby division to the heavies was a real treat. Young Jack Perre in his fight with Carmichael showed that he is a find. Jimmy Filkins and Lucien Kidd put up a fine scrap. Marcellino Gonzales met a tough boy in the other Carmichael, but his experience and punch proved too much. Leslie Blaize and Frank Eagan fought every minute of the time. Sam Ballard showed a rapier-like left hand and a mean right cross in his fight with George Benedetto. George is a very clever boy, so these two put up an entertaining fight. Curtis Matherne and Hugh Ryland fought like enemies but as a matter of fact they are real buddies. Artigues and Rhody put up a thrilling fight, both boys doing their best all the time.

Edmund Blaize hit too hard for the boy from the Kiln. Cameron was as game as they make them, but Blaize was too strong. Edmund won by a technical K. O. in the third round. Sam Zemurray and Page Tharp both of Tulane gave the fans a fine exhibition of boxing. The younger boxers learned many of the finer points of the game. Their blocking in particular was very good. In the final bout, Jimmy Beeson and Bill Reggio fought to a draw. This fight alone was well worth the money of any fan.

Then the fair on Saturday and Sunday nights on the lawn of St. Stanislaus College attracted many by the illumination and general decoration. The fair was well managed and carried out in that manner that made for it a further success than the financial side.

The pastor and general executive management of the fair extends to all managers and helpers, to the referee and every fighter for their wonderful spirit of sacrifice and generosity in making this card a success. Thanks to the Municipal Band for its share in making the program entertaining. Thanks in particular to the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, Brother Vincent and Junior Breath.

—Miss Oleah Mauffray, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Mauffray, returned home Saturday direct from New York and Washington, after a European trip of two months. Miss Mauffray boarded the steamer at Montreal and sailed to Dublin, Ireland, where she attended the Eucharistic Congress. Her trip was one of success over an itinerary that took her to England, France, Italy, Switzerland and Germany.

The trim little sailboat, "Aloa" riding at anchor opposite the De Ben beach summer home, Bay St. Louis, on Saturday broke the record run from West End to Bay St. Louis in long-distance sailing.

The crew was composed of Norman De Ben, Clyde Cresson and Andrew Hillery who left New Orleans Saturday evening at 5 o'clock and cast anchor in Bay St. Louis waters Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, covering the distance in 11 hours flat.

"It is true," said young De Ben, "we had conditions in our favor, and we took advantage of every element of water and wind, however, the Aloa cut wave and wind with a thorough consistency and performed marvelously to every single maneuver and we are naturally proud of the boat's achievement."

Mr. De Ben and his associates are naturally modest and fail to attribute their success to that major element, good seamanship.

—Heavy and unexpected rainfall Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock caused damage to the local electric light system. Lightning struck a pole at the intersection of Union and Second street and burned the wire from its fastening and the pole caught on fire. Current was cut off and lights extinguished over that particular circuit, but the local Mississippi Power attendant soon had the damage repaired and current turned on again as if nothing had occurred.

—Mrs. Sarah Shields Prevot, daughter of Mr. Bernard Shields, who has been spending the season here, left New York City Wednesday on board the steamer Rochambeau for her home at Milhan, France, where Mr. Prevot is engaged in the glove manufacturing. While here Mrs. Prevot spent her time principally at the Shields family home on Waveland beach and visiting relatives and friends at New Orleans, all of whom regretted to see her leave again for Europe, where she permanently resides since her marriage some years ago.

—Mrs. Nora F. Jones and family is enjoying a visit from her son, Joseph C. Jones, known in the religious Order of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart as Bro. Alvin, who arrived here from New York City enroute to Natchez, to which place he has been assigned for the coming year. Bro. Alvin left Bay St. Louis four years ago to study for the brotherhood and this is the first visit home since that time. He is a brother of Mr. Edward J. Jones, local attorney and assistant to Mr. Robt. H. Gemin. Bro. Alvin is warmly welcomed back home.
